Reunion and Tour Groups Save Big When Staying in Newport News

Newport News, Va. – The Newport News Tourism Development Office has recently released the 2013 edition of its annual Coupon Book – now in the form of a more environmentally friendly “sheet” – for groups visiting the city.

The 58 coupons include percentage/money-off discounts, free admissions and buy-one-get-one-free offers at some of the best attractions, hotels, restaurants and retailers in the city.

“This sheet is filled with dozens of money-saving coupons for shopping, dining and attractions throughout the city,” said Barb Kleiss, group marketing manager with the city’s tourism office. “You can enjoy some of the best dining the region has to offer with special buy-one-get-one deals, save on shopping and on admissions to our attractions, all while taking advantage of discounted hotel rates!”

In addition to saving groups money, these coupons benefit tour and reunion planners by providing them with great ideas on where to take their groups to eat/shop/play while staying in Newport News.

“This is our eighth edition and filled with the best offers yet,” Kleiss said. “It’s a great way for your guests to save money while visiting Newport News – and the best part is, it’s FREE!”

The coupon sheet is one of several complimentary services offered by the Newport News Tourism Development Office – and is one of the most popular. Planners coordinating reunions and tours in Newport News can also save valuable time and money with our Convention Services Program, which provides complimentary hospitality tables during registrations, welcome bags for attendees, as well as arranging personal welcomes and greetings from city leaders and tourism professionals.
